

Artist in Residence Program Application

The Farmington Valley Arts Center (FVAC), established in 1974, is a nonprofit creative community whose mission is to “connect creativity to daily life” through the arts by supporting the entire creative artistic process. The Farmington Valley Arts Center fulfills this mission by providing a multifaceted environment for artists and the general public. Professional artists pursue their art or craft in the 18 studios at the Farmington Valley Arts Center where the general public is invited to witness the creative process. A year-round schedule of educational programming in the visual arts is offered for adults and children. Also two galleries are open to the public, exhibiting high quality art and craft. The Farmington Valley Arts Center holds several open studios events, regular artist demonstrations and talks, and gallery exhibits and openings.

The Artist in Residence Program exists to provide artists with professional working space in an artistic community. Studio artists work in a rental studio space that is open to the public during the Arts Center’s special events and programming and at the artist’s discretion. The program showcases a diversity of talents, and artists from a broad spectrum of disciplines may choose to work together and share ideas. The Artist in Residence Program includes promotional events and optional professional gallery representation. In conjunction with the pursuit of their art, artists participate in and contribute to the Farmington Valley Arts Center’s mission.

The Farmington Valley Arts Center will sponsor an Artist in Residence Program. The program provides space in which an emerging artist in fine arts and crafts can expand the parameters of their chosen mediums, explore new directions in their work and enhance their creative vision, and at the same time advance the Farmington Valley Arts Center goal of educating the public through seeing and participating in the hands-on creation of art. The Artist in Residence will join the Farmington Valley Arts Center’s community of Studio Artists in Avon, CT and will be connected with a volunteer Studio Artist mentor for the period of their residency.

Artists will be selected based on the quality of their work, their interest in working at the Farmington Valley Arts Center and making a difference in the Farmington Valley’s vibrant cultural community. In addition to studio space, the Artist in Residence may have access to a wide variety of resources and opportunities, including teaching opportunities at the Arts Center and at other schools and organizations, representation in the Arts Center’s sales gallery and collaborative opportunities with other artists and organizations.
